TOP OF THE MORNING.

We may now expect the big packers to beef.

Keep a-hoppin' at that early shop-pin! You'll be able to smile for one Christmas.

Democrats say that the tariff should come before the trust in Congressional consideration. Yes, it's very well to tackle the parent first.

Chicago suffragettes are selling their silver spoons to promote the cause. They seem determined to have a dish in affairs.

Despite the humiliation of being compelled to abdicate, Prince Chun should find consolation in the fact that he came out a head ahead.

Billy Sunday is now furnishing Wichita, Kansas, with bully Sundays.

A Kansas judge has just sanctioned a mother-in-law's right to interfere in the affairs of her married children. The sanction was entirely unnecessary.

Quit talking about your neighbors, and talk about the All-Parahandle Fair. That's a commendable sort of gossip.

We respectfully urge General Reyes to refrain from any more do-cocoking. It's hard on the public's nerves.

President Taft's speeches have made him famous for manipulation of words, as against a mastery of ideas. These peculiar mental processes are exhaustively in evidence in his message on the Anti-Trust act—this state document ranking as a message instead of a message.
